

In March, Red Class has been looking at Tudors in History. We found out about the kings and queens and the Tudor Rose. We looked at what Tudor people wore. We found out about Tudor jobs and tried some weaving. We investigated their houses. We even tried some of their food - some of us really liked it and others did not!

We have continued with our investigation of light in Science. We looked at reflection, first of ourselves and then of lights. We noticed that we could not see light reflecting when it was shone at black card. We found that black also makes the best material for curtains as it was not at all transparent and was opaque.

We have been talking about our bodies in PSHE. We learned that we are all unique, some things are the same and some things are different. We have
